DIGITAL LEARNING LEADER

“It is no longer a question of whether or not we will implement e-learning in our schools, but whether we will do it well.”

Technologies of the Web 2.0 are changing the ways students connect, interact, and share their lives. Teachers must be proficient in online teaching and learning tools in order to improve their teaching and maximize learning opportunities of their students especially in higher education like medicine.

Fortunately, most of these tools are free and easy to use and can be mastered with little or no help. The key part is to be thinking about the pedagogical aspects and to start creating opportunities for students to use

Objectives:

At the end of workshop participants will be able to:

- Describe generation and curriculum trends
- Create formative assessment with gamification
- Demonstrate how to use these modalities in their current curriculum

Special Logistics

Personal Laptop for all participants, Good internet connection

Target Audience:

Teaching faculty members

Duration:

3 hours
